This is the draft report I spoke of. It seems to me that GPEB is rushing down a path that ought to be trod much more cautiously. I've marked the report up quite a bit. You may not want to read the whole thing, but the recommendations at the end will have an effect on us and the service providers. It appears that GPEB will tie AML performance indicators to the reduction in cash which is misguided, in my opinion. They fail to consider the legitimate patron who simply prefers to use cash for any number of legitimate reasons. I've circulated this among my folks, but I've asked them not to forward it further. I have a conference call with GPEB on this on Monday.
