No problem Ross.

We appreciate the sharing you have done and our taking your complaint very seriously due to the links we are seeing to transnational organized crime. We are going to commence regular reporting to our NHQ as well and they have already been briefed. Both US and other law enforcement agencies have been engaged.

I did speak with my supervisors about the sensitivity of information / our ops and suggested for the integrity of the info we impose appropriate info sharing, as we would do with other complainants. However, if you or others at BCLC require additional info from us, I'm more that willing to meet with yourselves and explore the "need to know" info.

Thanks for the note.

Calvin.

Hi Cal,

I appreciate your time yesterday and the candidness of the discussion.

Brad and I met today and discussed some of the new information and your concerns relating to operations that our BCLC investigators may or may not do, specifically how that may impact any law enforcement investigation, and subsequently the potential impact to the image and reputation of BCLC.

Brad and I have arranged a meeting to brief our CEO on Friday specifically to talk about some of the challenges.

Rest assured any specific operational information I may be aware of remains entirely confidential and I am not prepared to share that, even with Brad. That will be your call in any discussion you may have with him yourself.

Thanks again for the support from you and your team and rest assured you will have my continued cooperation and commitment to doing the right thing.

Regards

Ross Alderson CAMS
